THE GAZETTE.

THURSDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 25.

An Uunpublished Incident of the Civil War. The writer was one afternoon in the cafe of John Chamberlain's famous hostelry in Washington city enjoying some of the delights of that place when he heard the following conversation: There were present Sepators Blackburn, of Kentucky; Pagh, of Alabama; Hearst, of California, and several R-presentatives. Among the latter was Hon. Andrew G. Curtin, the old war Gov-ernor of Pennsylvania, whose great service to the federal government during the war is known to every oue, and who has been ever since an honored member of the House of Representatives until the at two years. The gentlemen were discussing the life and character of Edwin Stanton, Mr. Lincoln's secretary of war. Senator Blackburn declared him to have been the greatest was minister since the days of the great Carnot.

Mr. Curtin said no matter what a man's abilities might be, he could not be great unless he were good, and that quality was un-known in Stanton's character. And he told known in Stenton's character. And he told the following interesting experience that he had with Mr. Stanton during the war: While he was governor he went to Washington to see Mr. Staunton about the exchange of 20,000 soldiers, most of whom were from his State. When he seked Stanton to consent to exchange he was met with the following reply: "Do you expect me to exchange 20,000 soldiers." reply: "Do you expect me to exchange 20.-000 well fed, well clothed, healthy rebels, who would go right back into the Confeder-ate army, for 20,000 starving, sickly men who would be a charge upon their friends." At this reply Mr. Curtin was amezed, and said "Do I understand that you will be inhuman enough to let our poor men starve and euffer, and many of them die in Ander-sonville and other southern prisons rather than exchange them?" Finding that he could not get Mr. Staunton to agree to the exchange he left in disgust which he did not attempt to conceal.

On the next day he received a telegram from Mr. Stanton saying: "The cause of the union would be promoted if you would retire to private life." To which he sent the following reply:

Secretary Stanton: -The cause of the union and of humanity would be promoted if you were in hell, where you ought to have been forty years ago. Gov. Curtin said he had preserved these two telegrams with other war correspondence.—Bristol News.

TREASURE TROVE .- Dredging operations now being carried out at Santander, Spain, have resulted in the discovery of the wellpreserved wreck of a warship of the fifteenth or sixteenth century. She must have been in her present position for 400 years, and was partly covered by a deposit of eand and mud. Divers have brought up guns which bear the united arms of Castile and Aragon, the scroll of Isabella, or the crown and initial of Ferdinand. This ship would appear te have been employed as a transport, and, inasmuch as some of the arms are of French and Italian make, it is supposed that she formed part of the fortunate expedition against Naples under Genzalo de Cordoba. She probably foundered while entering the port of Santander on her return from Italy laden with trophles and plunder. Among the coins recovered are some bearing the image and superscription of Charles VIII. of France, and others issued by various contemporary Italian States.

I am a painter by trade. Three years ago I had a bad case of Lead Poison, caused by using paint. I was cured in a short time by S. S. S.
The medicine drove the poison out through the pores of the skin. My system was so saturated with poison that my underclothes were colored by the paint being worked out by the medicine through the pores of my skin. I was cured entirely by S. S.
